Justine Fontes has written many kinds of books for many publishers, including several titles in the Myths and Legends series (Graphic Universe). She and her husband, Ron, have written more than 50 children's books together. They live in Maine.

This series is a great choice for struggling high school readers. My READ180 9th Graders love all of the books. The topics are appropriate and high interest for high school readers. It is similar to the Blucked High series, but at lower Lexiles and they don't need to be read in any particular order. I hope there are additions to this 12-book series soon!

As an 8th grade teacher with most of my students reading well below grade level, I am always on the hunt for high school stories written at the elementary school level in order to get my reluctant readers to READ. This series wins half the battle with cool cover art. The topics are engaging, the story lines aren't too complicated, and my low readers can feel proud to carry a cool looking book to class.

As a teacher of developing readers, this book grabbed their attention and had low vocabulary for struggling comprehension.

Interesting book and students can read it fairly quickly. The message is important.
