The Puzzle Files Of Larry Logic

Synopsis

Ominous shadows. Dark, rain-drenched streets. A hard-boiled detective in his trench coat. That's the magic and atmosphere of film noir—and the fun behind this unique, interconnected book of puzzles. Meet Larry Logic, a small-town cop with detective skills to rival Sam Spade and Philip Marlowe—except Larry solves crimes using keen logical reasoning instead of his fists. Solvers can test their own abilities as they help Larry crack his cases. Each group of puzzles tells a mini-story in which all the answers combine into one final whodunit. See if you have what it takes to solve alongside Larry Logic!

Dan Katz lives in Providence, RI, where he teaches and coordinates calculus courses at Brown University. Katz has written puzzlehunt puzzles for the MIT Mystery Hunt, the Gen Con Puzzle Hunt, and BAPHL. His puzzles have also appeared in Wired, MAA Focus, and Games World of Puzzles. His most notorious gift to the puzzling community is the follow-the-deranged-directions puzzle format known as the Duck Konundrum, for which he sincerely apologizes. This is his first puzzle book.

Entertaining!

Gave this as a present & recipient very happy with it.

This is a great book of puzzles. I love the mystery theme and the way the individual puzzles come together to tell a story. The puzzles are challenging throughout, though they start easy within a section, and get harder. Would love to see more from this author (maybe even a sequel?). Recommended for anyone who loves puzzles and is looking for a good, fun mental workout.

I, like the author, have been addicted to logic puzzles since childhood. And I agree, many are the same: who did it, in what order, with what tool, etc.? This book is different, and I absolutely LOVE it! Each puzzle is challenging, but not so difficult you can't finish it. And, when I do finish one, I feel like I accomplished something. It's a very satisfying feeling. I hope Mr. Katz creates some more puzzles like this.

I am enjoying solving these puzzles. It is different from the standard logic grid puzzles as you need to figure out a different way to solve it each time. Hard to explain but more challenging. It is also fun to use the group you have just solved to figure out the answer so you have something to aim for.
