My Korean in-laws love babysitting for my daughter. I'm regular old mixing pot American, but I really want my baby to get the Korean language and eventually heritage. We have 4 cats and this book is perfect..... the in-laws get to read a story to the baby in Hangeul and since they are not totally fluent in English... they are getting to practice their English too! It's a win for everyone! It could only be better if there was romanized Korean writing.... so I could practice my Korean. Please consider this for your future books. I know even more people would use these baby books for even adults to reinforce learning a foreign language. Thank you and "kam-sa-mida"!

This book was all of my kids favorite. I bought additional for each kid to have one for their own children.

When my daughter received these books as a gift it was hard for me to believe she would like them. Boy was I wrong. She ADORED them. Ages 9m - 15m were our sweet spot with these books and they made many plane rides bearable. I love the variety in the kids used, the simplicity of the photos. Plus they are fun. Where's the Kitten and Where's the Baby were our favorites.

My little one adores kittens, babies and lifting flaps, so I hoped this would combine her interests. There are almost no images of babies inside the book, despite the cover. There are flaps, but the images of the kittens are quite small and hidden amongst other things. This is probably great for older toddlers who want a little bit of a puzzle. For younger babies who just want the surprise of lifting a flap and seeing something they like, it doesn't work as well.

My grandchildren loved this book; they would bring the book to me to read to them even before they were really walking. I give it now as a gift everytime someone I know has a baby. The book is sturdy so that the flaps last, and I think that having real people and animals in the book instead of drawings adds greatly to the appeal.

I bought the whole series for my 10 month old daughter after her doctor gave her, "Where's the puppy"? at one of her well baby check-ups. She absolutely loved the book! We took it with us to Church every Sunday and it kept her occupied. My daughter is now 15 months old and she still loves this book and all of the others in this series. These are by far her favorite books and she has a lot of books. They are also fun to read to her. Even her older 10 year old sister enjoys reading these little flap books to her baby sister. If you have a baby or need to buy a gift for someone who does, you can't go wrong with this book!

I bought this book for my niece along with several other cat books because she is fascinated by cats. This is among her favorites. She looks through it over and over again and loves the peek-a-boo flaps. The flaps are holding up to the frequent use and little hands fine so far.

I was shocked to see how much my baby liked this book
